Decorative artists will be interested in these two new volumes, each of which takes a unique view. Active artists and teachers in the folk arts, Diephouse and Deptula are primarily landscape artists who concentrate on seasonal illustrations for boxes, floor cloths, picnic baskets, and the like. Their highly usable book comes with traceable patterns, detailed instructions, and step-by-step photos. Stansifer, a decorative arts teacher and writer, shows decorative painters how to depict baby bobcats, Siberian tigers, cottontail rabbits, blue jays, and chipmunks. She provides close-up photos, color swatch charts, fur and feather growth diagrams, and a list of suppliers, with e-mail addresses and web sites. Both books are recommended for public libraries of any size. Copyright 2001 Reed Business Information, Inc.

Judy Diephouse and Lynne Deptula are two of decorative painting's most popular artists and teachers. Their classes at conventions are continually sold out, and they own and operate their own successful painting and publishing business. Together they are also the authors of North Light's Painting Blooms and Blossoms. They live in Grand Rapids, Michigan.

This book was a great bargain. I am currently doing the painting on the front cover. Big thick book full of projects. Very clear instructions. Fast shipping, and book was in great condition for being used. Another great decorative art painting book to add to my collection, and the projects are gorgeous. Beautiful folk art.
